6 July 2022

Start/Finish: at The Fountain, Bart's Square
Time: 10.15 for 10.30 am

Adjourn for lunch at 1.00 pm to
'The Rising Sun'
38 Cloth Fair, London EC1A 7JQ Tel: 020 7726 6671

This walk will be led by Steve Hunnisett, a member of the Guild of Battlefield Guides, who runs 'Blitz Walkers'
– <https://www.blitzwalkers.co.uk/>

At each of the numbered places on the map Steve will give talks and show photographs

Starting at The Fountain, Bart's Square, Steve will give us a fascinating insight into wartime London. His encyclopaedic knowledge, stories and photographs will bring history to life! We will see evidence of Zeppelin bombs and V-2 explosions and learn about the largest bomb dropped at that time (known by the Germans as a 'Liebsgabe', or Love Gift). Stops include Tudor Archway, Bartholomew Close and The Butchers' Hall; all sustained damage and we will also visit several sites of Wren churches destroyed in the Blitz. Bank and Cannon Street stations did not escape damage and as we continue towards St. Paul's Cathedral, we will see the National Firefighters' Memorial and learn about the work of the Fire Services during WW2. On our return to The Fountain, we will pass Paternoster Square, once the centre of London's publishing industry and the former Central Telegraph Office, both heavily damaged in the war.

We finish at The Fountain and adjourn for lunch at The Rising Sun in a private area upstairs where, on the walls, photographs of Bart's and members of the staff before the First World War can be seen.

All in all, a walking tour not to be missed! Please book early as numbers are limited.
