

Past DHMSA Dissertation Access

If you would like to view some examples of past DHMSA dissertations, please email Precious Eniola, Academic Assessment Administrator, via AcademicAdmin@apothecaries.org and state which dissertations from the list below you would like to read. The selection covers a range of subjects and includes recent winners of the Maccabean Prize for the best dissertation submitted for the DHMSA.

Robert Feneck, Surgery, Emotion and the Impact of Anaesthesia (2021)

Anita Hoffmann, Popular Medical Literature – for Women, by Women and Published by Women in 17th Century London (2020)

David Maudgil, The “moral treatment” of insanity with particular reference to the work of Sir William Charles Ellis and his wife at the Hanwell Pauper Lunatic Asylum from 1831-1838 (2020)

Alexander Manché, Two Historical Landmark Heart Operations performed in Malta: How was this possible? (2022)

Katherine Millard, Public Health Approaches to Reducing Infant Mortality in the administrative county of Warwickshire in the first decade of the 20th Century (2020)

Joanna Mary Pearson, Aid to Spain. Blood for Britain. Janet Vaughan, her humanitarian and medical work 1936-1945 and her legacy to British Medicine (2017)

Bryan Rhodes, Richard Owen, the Lancaster Castle Surgeons and the Stolen Prisoner’s Head (2020)

Lauren Watts, Drug Development of Digitalis: an account of discovery, trials and refinement across the 18th and 19th centuries (2022)

Jane Hone, What factors within the NHS and in late 20th century medical education led to the formation of the Imperial College School of Medicine, London? (2021)

For past Maccabean Prize Winners see:

<https://www.apothecaries.org/wp-content/uploads/2022/08/Maccabean-Prize-Winners-History-1961-current.pdf>

The list of past dissertation titles (covering 2022-2012) will be available from :

<https://www.apothecaries.org/diploma-in-the-history-of-medicine/>